Terese Reyes's new gallery hosts 300 at reception

Feel safe to say that nationally acclaimed art dealer and native Detroiter Terese Reyes is blown away by the response to the opening of her tony gallery that stands proudly on Birmingham prime real estate at Maple Road and Old Woodward. She hosted 300 visitors last Friday at an opening reception that brought in collectors, gallery-goers, and family and friends. Guests drank and noshed on gallery fare as they observed the works of the opening show, a group effort developed with artist Scott Reeder titled "Undercover Boss."

"It's been a whirlwind and very heartening for me personally," exclaims Terese, who was featured in Forbes this week. "Many of the artists made it. Tony Cox flew in from New York; Scott and Tyson Reeder, who are professors at the School of the Art Institute of Chicago; Greg Fadell and Jonathan Rajewski, who live locally. It was a family affair in many ways. I've been forging relationships with these artists for a long time."
